CYMRIC WAS NOT WARNED CREW SAYS

NO AMERICANS WERE ON LINER, CONSUL REPORTS.

VERDUN FIGHT SLACKENS

BRITISH SHIP IS DAMAGED BY GERMANS OFF BELGIUM.

A new note on the Sussex case has been handed Ambassador Gerard by the foreign office. The note is now on its way to Washington.

According to a despatch from Amsterdam today, admission is made in Berlin following the investigation into the Sussex incident that it can no longer be doubted that a German submarine torpedoed the Sussex on the supposition that the vessel attacked was a warship.

All except three members of the crew of the White Star liner Cymric, torpedoed off the Irish coast, were British subjects, today's despatches state, the exceptions being one Russian and two Belgians. The definite announcement comes from American Consul Frost at Queenstown, that there were no Americans on board. He also reports that no warning was given and that the wake of a torpedo was seen.

Brazil will demand indemnity from Germany for the sinking by a submarine of the Brazilian steamer Rio Branco, according to a Rio Janeiro despatch.

Paris reports diminishing activity in the Verdun region following the desperate fighting of the past few days. On both banks of the Meuse the artillery fire has slackened, that east of the river being described as intermittent. A German attack on the French lines near Moulain-Sous-Toutvent was completely checked.

Berlin reports the extension of the German positions on Hill 304, northwest of Verdun, recently captured from the French, and the driving back of French detachments southwest of the hill.

A British destroyer was badly damaged by gunfire during a brief engagement off the Belgian coast on May 8 between British and German torpedo craft, a German admiralty statement announces.

A British estimate of German casualties since the beginning of the war places them at 3,222,079. The total killed or died from wounds is placed at 664,552. The figures are said to have been compiled from German official lists.

NO AMERICANS ON CYMRIC.

Details of White Liner's Destruction Told by Survivors.

LONDON, May 10.—Wesley Frost, American consul at Queens-town, sent a telegram today from Brantley to the American embassy here announcing definitely that there were no Americans on board the Cymric. Mr. Frost said no warning was given but that the wake of a torpedo was seen and confirmed previous statements that the vessel was not armed.

BANTRY, Ireland, May 10.—Details of the sinking of the White Star liner Cymric were given today by members of the crew who were landed here. They say that the torpedo which destroyed the ship struck the engine room. The explosion blew all the sky-lights off and extinguished the lights throughout the vessel.

Four men were killed by the explosion and the chief steward was drowned trying to reach a boat when the crew abandoned the ship.

One hundred and seven members of the crew took to the boats shortly after the liner was torpedoed, but returned when it was seen that the steamer was not in immediate danger of sinking. They remained on board for two hours when a sloop which had heard the Cymric's wireless calls for help 100 miles away, arrived and took them off. The sloop stood by the stricken liner until she sank at 3:30 in the morning.

All of the crew were British subjects except one Russian and two Belgians. There were also six passengers on board, members of the British consular service, all of whom were saved.

Officers say that the Cymric was unarmed.

BERLIN, May 10.—(By wireless to Bayville).—In an engagement off the Belgian coast on Monday between German and British torpedo craft, a British destroyer was badly damaged by artillery fire, according

TELEGRAPH TIPS

LAREDO, Texas.—One million rounds of rifle ammunition, which Mexicans attempted to smuggle across the river into Mexico near here, was confiscated by troops here today. It was believed the ammunition was intended for use of bandits in Mexico.

WILMINGTON, Del.—The entire force of the 115th company coast artillery, stationed mostly at Fort Dupont, some at Fort Delaware river, was busy today preparing to move to Texas, in response to orders from the war department. There are 105 men in this company. Before the day is ended, the company will be in readiness to move immediately upon the receipt of final orders. They will work in the border service as infantry.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

SENATE: Senator Kenyon of Iowa resumed attack on rivers and harbors appropriation bill. Federal trade commission submitted report on distribution of Mexican sisal hemp among American binder twine manufacturers.

HOUSE: Met at noon. Consideration of Humphreys flood control bill was resumed. Naval committee continued framing of general supply bill.

SAFETY RECORDS ON RAILWAYS BROKEN

CHICAGO, May 10.—All railway safety records were broken in 1915 when 325 American roads, reporting to the bureau of railway news and statistics here, went through the entire fiscal year to June 30 without a single fatality to a passenger in a train accident. The roads reporting operate 181,948 miles of line. It is stated that this record of safe operation has never been equaled by any railroad of any other country.

All American roads in 1915, operating over 250,000 miles of line, reported 196 passengers killed in all railway accidents. In comparison, the latest returns for Europe, with 137,015 miles, show 700 passengers thus killed.

The decreasing hazard to trainmen is shown by the fact that 235 were employed to one killed, the best record shown in that respect.

$110,000 TOTAL RAISED WITH 12 HOURS YET TO GO

Campaigners For New Y. M. C. A. Building Have Until Midnight.

SUCCESS SEEMS SURE

Last Half of Day Will See Heroic Fight For the $15,000.

Twelve hours in which to raise $15,000!

Such was the cry after the noon-day luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium today. With the report of one team missing, the total pledged to date becomes $109,953.50, and assurances from the team not reported push the total to about $110,753.50, for W. T. Feely had about $800 to report at that time.

Midnight will close the most interesting and certainly the most dramatic campaign ever attempted in Lima. Unless $125,000 is pledged by that time the entire amount will be lost, in addition to the expense of the campaign. More than 300 solicitors, including 75 high school boys, have been at work for a week, the younger aides coming into the fight day before yesterday. In addition to these, grade school boys have been set to work passing cards for mothers' subscriptions, with a house-to-house canvas in sight for this afternoon.

Tonight at six o'clock the results of the campaign will be more definitely known. Herculean efforts are being made this afternoon, and not a stone will be left unturned by the general staff in charge of the subscription campaign.

A holiday has been granted the high school boys engaged in the work of raising $7,500 for the new building. Through the efforts of Frank C. Cunningham, Superintendent J. E. Collins was persuaded to grant this concession to the lads who surprised their elders yesterday. At first the faculty of the high school desired to exempt only those whose grades were above a certain limit, but as many live wires among the solicitors would have been eliminated from the canvas Mr. Cunningham insisted that the entire group be excused as a reward for their work, as well as to obtain their services for today. The youngsters responded and are paying for the holiday with an amazing display of energy and success for their age.

After the reports for today were turned in only one of the banners changed hands. In division A, F. A. Thomas kept it, giving him that honor for the second time. In B, Mayor Ballis H. Simpson yielded it to F. W. Durbin. Both have held the flag twice. Among the high school lads the team headed by Marshall Knox retains the honor of holding high total, although for the day Harold King and his young associates brought in the largest amount, only fifty cents under the $400 mark. The boys have now a total of $2,910.50 to their credit, a gain of $1,908.50 over yesterday's report.

Among the new subscriptions reported are the following:
Anonymous (2) ..... $1,000
J. C. Rickoff ..... 500
J. C. Thompson ..... 500
Kirk Brice, N. Y. .... 500

BRANDEIS HEARING ORDERED REOPENED

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Re-opening of public hearings on the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court was ordered today by the senate judiciary committee for inquiring into Mr. Brandeis' connection with the proposed merger several years ago of the United Cigar Stores company and the Riker-Hegeman chain of drug stores. Louis K. Liggett of Boston and George W. Anderson, United States attorney at Boston, have been summoned to appear in that connection Friday.

The motion to re-open the hearings was made by Senator Sutherland, republican of Utah, who said some information recently had come to him in connection with the proposed merger which was summarized, and on which it is said Mr. Brandeis was consulted in an advisory capacity.

There was no general discussion of the new phase of the case and the whole committee adjourned without further action until next Monday. No time was fixed for a vote on the nomination.

What Lima Boosters Hope to Secure

The above picture shows the type of building which will be erected in Lima as a result of the $125,000 campaign which closes at midnight tonight. It is made from a photograph of the Elvira building, which cost the same amount and the plans are the same as planned for Lima. The style of architecture will be the same, for the experience of past years in erecting new Y. M. C. A. buildings has taught the officers of the national organization that this style provides a maximum of room at a minimum of expense. The interior arrangement will be much the same throughout.

STATE COMMITTEE JOB NOT DRAWING GREAT ATTENTION

Only Candidate For Lee's Place Hasn't Yet Said He'll Run.

Primary Kills Much of Post's Old Prestige and Power.

By David W. Bowma.—Perhaps the democrats don't know it or have failed to give it any thought, but it is up to that party to elect a member of the state central committee from this congressional district August 8, and less than a month remaining until the last date for filing, June 8. Nothing has been done, apparently, and the only possibility who has been suggested for a candidate has not yet announced his intentions.

The present incumbent, Postmaster Val Lee of Sidney, is bound by the rules of the federal government affecting postal employees, and must avoid "pernicious political activity." On this account, it is said, Lee will not be candidate for another term. Allen county is paying no attention to the job because of the recent tenure of the office by J. H. Seerest. Moreover, Lima has the only two candidates on the republican side of the fence, State Chairman W. L. Parmenter and Attorney James W. Halfhill, who has the en-

STATE MEDIATORS GO TO YOUNGSTOWN

Called by Labor Trouble; Thousand Tailors Join Chicago Strikers.

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—Fred C. Croxton, chief mediator of the Ohio industrial commission, and George F. Miles, deputy mediator, will go to Youngstown today to mediate the strike of machinists and electrical engineers. The entrance of the state officials into the Youngstown strike is by written request of Carroll Thornton, mayor of Youngstown, received by Croxton Wednesday morning.

More than 3,000 men including employees of eight big concerns and several smaller ones are concerned in the strikes.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 10.—Three thousand men entered the plant of the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company at East Pittsburgh today before the gates were shut. All of the strikers who now desire to return will have to make application through the employment office. Strike leaders and pickets were not in sight around the works. The situation in other parts of the Turtle Creek Valley was declared by factory managers to be improved, and more men returned to work at McKees Rocks where employees of the Pressed Steel Car company have been striking.

Judge A. B. Reid called the grand jury before him when court opened and instructed it to carefully investigate the Braddock riot. Anna Bell, Fred M. Merrick and J. H.

GERMANY ADMITS SUSSEX ATTACK AND PLEDGES REPARATION

Note States the Submarine Commander Has Been Punished.

Paris Papers Laud America's Reply to Kaiser as Masterpiece.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Lansing received a message from Ambassador Gerard today giving notice that a new note on the Sussex case had been handed him and was on the way to Washington. It has been indicated that the German government now admits attacking the Sussex, gives notice that the submarine commander responsible has been punished and promises to make reparation.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, May 10.—A semi-official despatch from Berlin says that as the result of the German government's investigation concerning the explosion which damaged the steamship Sussex it cannot longer be doubted that the vessel torpedoed by a German submarine on the supposition that it was a warship was in fact the Sussex.

RIO JANEIRO, May 10.—The German minister, replying to the note of the Brazilian government in regard to the sinking of the Brazilian ship Rio Branco by a German submarine, informed the chancery today that his government would undoubtedly receive willingly any communication on the subject addressed to it by Brazil. As soon as the official inquiry into the sinking of the ship is concluded, a demand for indemnity will be presented to Berlin.

The Rio Branco was sunk on May 2, and her crew landed at Blythe, England. The sinking of the ship caused great indignation in Brazil.

PARIS, May 10.—Great prominence is given by the newspapers of Paris this afternoon to the latest American note to Germany replying to the German communication respecting submarine warfare. The American note is spoken of as a masterpiece of diplomacy.

"With conciseness, firmness and clarity, which is in strong contrast to the pathos with which Wilhelmstrasse announced its backdown, President Wilson maintains the position he took up in the preceding note," writes Stephen Pichon, former foreign minister in the Petit Journal.

The Matin says the American note places Germany in a cruel dilemma, her suggestions having been rejected but her promises registered so that they will have to be kept.

TROOPS ARE ENROUTE TO THE BORDER

COAST ARTILLERY AND MILITIA ORDERED TO FRONT.

PERSHING NOT ATTACKED

ADVANCE OF CARRANZISTAS FOUND TO BE UNTRUE.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Baker informed President Wilson today that the conference between General Scott and General Obregon last night was not conclusive and that it would be continued today. He indicated that the outlook was more favorable for an agreement being reached. The exact points of the difference were not revealed.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 10.—A board of army officers today began laying out camps sites for the militia and regular troops that will begin to arrive here within the next few days, subject to the orders of Major General Funston. The total number of men mobilized here for service along the border and in Mexico will exceed 5,000 men.

The troops ordered to San Antonio included all the organized militia of Texas, 11 companies of coast artillery for Gulf and Atlantic seaboard joints and the second battalion of the third field artillery from Tobyhanna, Pennsylvania.

In addition General Funston has ordered out five batteries of the 5th field artillery at Fort Sill to move to the border.

Admiral Winslow, commanding on the west Mexican coast, reported to the navy department today that the steamer San Juan had taken 66 American refugees from Manzanillo and 23 from Mazatlan and was proceeding with them to San Diego, Calif. The admiral made no reference in his despatch to new disturbances on the coast but said there was a general feeling among Americans to leave Mexico.

COLUMBUS, N. M., May 10.—Rumors that 3,500 Carranza soldiers were marching on Columbus and that General Pershing's rear guard had been attacked, were dispelled here today after a reconnaissance flight made by Captain T. F. Dodd of the aero corps. Captain Dodd flew over territory 75 miles to the south and west of Columbus. He reported seeing no Mexican soldiers, and that all was quite along the American lines.

The rumors of an attack became current last night. Machine guns were mounted in some parts of the military camp and soldiers kept close to the barracks.

EL PASO, Texas, May 10.—No answer had been received early today from Washington to General Scott's message reporting General Obregon's proposal for a joint patrol of the international boundary.

General Scott said today's conference, scheduled for this morning, will be held regardless of whether a reply was received to the plan of the Mexican minister of war.

CONFERENCE EXTENDED.

Scott and Obregon Are to Meet Again on Mexican Situation.

EL PASO, Texas, May 10.—In increasing confidence in the ability of Generals Scott and Obregon to effect on agreement as to the status of the American punitive expedition in Mexico was evident on both sides of the Rio Grande today, notwithstanding the situation was not materially altered by the conferees in their three hours' talk last night. The optimism appeared based largely upon the admission that another conference would be held, perhaps today, and that General Obregon and his military advisers maintained attitudes of hopefulness.

The net result of the conferences already held in that the Mexican representatives yet insist upon placing the question of the withdrawal of General Pershing's forces ahead of the question of co-operation. General Scott was expected to receive from the war department a communication on which a reply could be delivered to General Obregon's counter proposal for a joint patrol of the border by the troops of each country on its own side of the line. With this agreed to, General Obregon believed that cooperation in the running down of bandits that raid across the line might be more effective.

Whether the conference will take place before late today was unknown.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN $125,000 BY MAY 10, 1916

either at General Obregon's headquarters or at General Scott's. Because of the new phases suggested by General Obregon, it was believed probable that he would consult with Carranza and that delays in communicating with the Mexican capital might make the holding of the conference before tomorrow impossible.

The ordering into the border country of more regular troops and militia appeared not to worry General Obregon, and these military men with him, nor did Juan N. Amador, sub-secretary of foreign affairs, appear perturbed. They assumed that the increasing of the forces along the border to an army of almost 50,000 to be solely for the protection of towns on the American side and laughed at the suggestions that anything more serious might be contemplated.

Major Langhorne, commanding two troops of the eighth cavalry, was wearing the international boundary line early today and it is understood that he is prepared to cross into Mexico if he sees any chance of running down any of the bandits implicated in the raid on Glenn Springs and Boquillas. Colonel F. W. Sibley, who will be in general command, will arrive on the border some time later with two troops and the disposition of the little force will depend upon circumstances and conditions. He has authority to cross into Mexico if he deems it expedient.

BIG BEND BAD MAN SLAIN.

Meets Fate in Long Range Duel With U. S. Trooper.

MARATHON, Texas, May 10.—Demetrio De La Garza, once known as the "bad man of the Big Bend country," met his death in a long range rifle duel with an American trooper on Monday in the hills near Boquillas. The cavalryman not only killed De La Garza but killed the Mexican's companion. De La Garza, kept a small trading store on the American side of the Rio Grande, but ranchers have long known him as a smuggler. News of his death was brought here today by J. W. Gudson, a truck contractor. De La Garza resented the presence of the American soldiers as a border patrol and in Boquillas he is said to have given advance information to the Villa bandits before their raid. The informer with an assistant observed the American cavalryman on patrol duty near Boquillas on Monday and the two Mexicans opened fire. The cavalryman returned the fire and killed the two Mexicans.

Villa bands are reported to be concentrating in large numbers at El Pino, 85 miles south of Boquillas. The two bodies of bandits split their forces after the Glenn Springs raid with the understanding that they would join their comrades at El Pino. These bandits have been operating several months in the vicinity of Sierra Mojada, and recently began their movement to the north with designs on American border towns.

to official announcement by the German admiralty under date of May 9.

"Two German torpedo boats," says the official statement, "while reconnoitering on the morning of May 8, had a brief engagement north of Ostend with five British torpedo boat destroyers. One destroyer was badly damaged by artillery fire. The German torpedo boats returned to port undamaged."

LONDON, May 10.—George Bernard Shaw, discussing the executions of the Sinn Feiners in an open letter today, says:

"My view is that men who were shot in cold blood after their capture or surrender, were prisoners of war and it was therefore entirely incorrect to slaughter them. The relation of Ireland to Dublin castle is in this respect precisely the same as the Balkan states toward Turkey or Belgium toward the Kaiser or of the United States to Great Britain."

"I am not a Sinn Feiner. I have always insisted it is the duty of Ireland to throw herself with all her power against the Germans and Austrians. But I remain an Irishman and resent any imputation that I can regard as a traitor any Irishman taken in a fight for Irish independence against British government."

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Marriage licenses were issued today, as follows:

Edward Neumeier, 28, musician, of 344 East Kibby street, and Mildred L. Moses, 20, clerk, of 327 South Scott street. The bride groom was born in Bohemia.

Frank E. Kelley, 22, grocery clerk, of 405 East Second street, and Myrtle M. King, 19, skirt maker, of 632 South Elizabeth street. The Rev. J. Norman King to officiate.

Wilbur D. Nye, 22, book-keeper, of 621 West Spring street, and Opal F. Akerman, 23, daughter of ex-Auditor E. C. Akerman of 337 North Jameson avenue. The Rev. W. J. Dunham to officiate.

A license was issued yesterday to William A. Gough, 26, accountant, of London, Ontario, and Helen Doyell, 23, of 730 West Market street. The Rev. Thomas Knox to officiate.

PENSION BILL APPROVED.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The senate has passed the house bill granting pensions to survivors of Indian wars from 1855 to 1891. It has been estimated it would increase the pension roll about $1,000,000 annually.

STATE COMMITTEE JOB NOT DRAWING GREAT ATTENTION

dormant of the county executive committee. In the lower end of the district is the sole candidate, and he hasn't stated openly that he will run, although he is expected to.

Dr. John Emerson Monger, of Darke, is the prospective candidate whom the southern end of the Fourth is tipping off as a "comer." He has been active in politics for ten years, but the only job he ever went after was that of coroner. When he left the office he turned the key over to his partner. He is identified with the Marker-Mahor-Matchett forces in that county, and it must be said for him that he is a scrapper of the old school. As he has no opposition at present he may be taking his time to the announcement proceedings, but his record shows that as soon as a rival appears he will be in the fight for about all there is in it. Word comes from Gettysburg that the doctor is keeping his ear to the ground, which tends to show that he will start his campaign when he has somebody to campaign against.

Down in Piqua some admirer of former Governor Judson Harmon dropped the hint last week that George S. Long, secretary to "Uncle Jud" while the latter graced the state house, would be about the right man, but investigation shows he is a practicing attorney in Columbus, although he still maintains an office in Piqua. He was once state senator in the Twelfth district, and as long as he remained in Troy the western end of the old Seventh Congressional district, General Kelfer's property for thirty years, had a democratic organization. But if Senator Long is practicing law in the capital he probably has no legal residence in Miami county.

The central committee membership is no longer the job it was in the old days before reformers pushed the primary across, for in the palmy era of the state conventions the central committee held a powerful position. The recommendation of appointees and similar prerogatives still give the post no small attraction, but politicians don't fight it out at the state conventions as they once did, for the primary has removed some of the reasons for wanting the place.

Ten years ago an even less the meetings of delegations from each congressional district witnessed a battle in the caucus, and then, incidentally, the job of a delegate to a state convention was also worth having.

That Monger will come seems assured, for he can figure that some body will have to take the job, but if opposition appears it is ten to one shot he will appear with an announcement, for he is happier gunning the deal for an opponent than when telling Johnny to take a teaspoonful once every three hours.

MARRIED FOR 36 YEARS, DIVORCE IS NOW ASKED

Married in Beaverdam on January 24, 1880, Aaron Curtis, in court today, asked for a divorce from Julia Curtis. They have no minor children.

He says she neglected to perform her household duties for the past two years and absented herself from home for long periods. He says he believes she is now in Drumright, Oklahoma. Service will be by publication.

MRS. MARTIN, TALENTED READER, REACHES LIMA

Mrs. Schuster Martin of Cincinnati, talented reader, who will tonight provide the delightful evening for the Young Ladies' circle of the First Baptist church, in her reading at the church, arrived in the city at noon today. She was met at the train by Mrs. W. B. Van Note and Mrs. J. K. Bannister, the latter of whom will entertain her while in the city.

Mrs. Martin will appear tomorrow afternoon at the First Baptist church in a reading for Shakespeare club members and their guests.

INDICTMENTS MADE PUBLIC.

Two more of the secret indictments returned by the April grand jury were made public today. Paul Goff was arraigned in court today, charged with abandonment of his minor child. He pleaded not guilty and was released on a bond of $500.

Wayne Crowe, indicted for cutting with intent to kill, pleaded guilty to assault and battery when arraigned before Judge Klinger. He was sentenced to pay $25 and costs and be confined in the county jail until the costs were paid or payment provided for.

TO SEEK EXPLANATION.

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—Explanation of the action of the state civil service commission in annulling examinations recently conducted for superintendents of the Columbus and Dayton state hospitals is to be asked by at least two members of the state board of administration, it has been announced.

BINDERY GIRLS STRIKE.

ALLIANCE, O., May 10.—Striking bindery girls and printers of the McCahey Register Company declared today that their ranks have been increased so that almost 200 are out. Application has been made to the American Federation of Labor for a union charter.

THE IDLER

Beginning this afternoon, 120 groceries and meat markets closed at noon to give employees a half holiday. The order will be effective until October.

Elmer V. Roberts of 503 East Market street, a local real estate man, is one of four men against whom 13 counts were returned by the grand jury which reported yesterday. Charles F. Harsh and M. Meredith of Delaware county, are two others of the men indicted. J. B. Morrissey, said to be without a permanent residence, is the fourth member of the quartet indicted for obtaining money under false pretences. Bond in the sum of $500, was fixed for each of the four. The indictment charges that by fraudulent pretences, they obtained promissory notes from a long list of farmers in Auglaize township. They sold stock in the Western Ohio Fence company and are said to have represented the company was solvent and paying a dividend. The opposite condition is said to have existed. Farmers gave notes for sums ranging from small to large amounts in taking stock in the company.

Superintendent J. E. Collins has selected next Monday morning for the taking of the city school census. The seventh and eighth grade pupils in various parts of the city will take the census in the vicinity of their homes, while pupils of the high school will take the census of the business district. This district is bounded by the Pennsylvania railroad on the north, the C. H. & D. railroad on the east, Europa on the south and West street on the west.

Arthur J. Mauer, assistant cashier at the C. H. & D. freight offices, left yesterday for Arkansas, in the Five building permits totaling $9,700 were issued yesterday by City Clerk Heffner, to W. E. Bayly, Lakewood avenue home, $3,500; C. M. Hill, South Nye street home, $3,000; D. L. Faze, Shawnee street, $1,500; J. E. Zimmerman, North West street, $1,500, and A. C. Keller, repairs, Heindle avenue, $200.

A bicycle belonging to Marion Priddy, of 1130 Forest avenue, was stolen from the corner of Third and Main streets today at noon. The owner of the property witnessed the theft and immediately gave chase, was unable to overtake him. Latter the wheel was recovered but the thief made his escape.

N. A. Leg of this city was yesterday awarded the contract for the erection of the new parochial school at Laudeck. The contract price is in the neighborhood of $20,000. The pastor Rev. George H. Lang was here yesterday in conference with the architect Andrew DeCurtis, going over the plans and specifications.

Theodore R. Lammers, prominent contractor and former member of the city council, has bought a fine touring car from the salesroom of Baxter Brothers.

Ed Tlemeyer, sub contractor under general contractor E. W. Murnigh, has commenced the stone and brick work on St. Rose's new fire proof high school and the building will be rushed to completion.

Funeral director E. J. O'Connell has purchased a seven passenger touring car from the local salesroom of the Buick motor car company.

Albert J. Simons, a former em### ploye of the Solar Refinery, has traded his property on west North street for a farm near Akron, and has removed his family there.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klaus today moved to their farm east of the city. Their suburban home just north of Robb ave., together with six acres of ground having been purchased by the Redemptorist Fathers of Brooklyn, New York who will take possession of the premises at once with the view of building a church and school thereon. Rev. John E. Behr who will be in charge is now stopping at St. Rose, parsonage making preparations.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph A. Schneider, the provincial of the Redemptorist order will arrive here with Bishop Schrembs of the Toledo diocese in regard to the formation of the new parish.

Ohio Electric employees were a happy lot today, for with their first pay check in May, went into effect the new order, giving all men what will practically mean an increase of 10 per cent in their wages. Each found an additional few dollars in his pay envelope today, as a result.

CHICAGO, May 10.—One thousand tailors employed by B. Kuppenheimer and company were called out today to join the six hundred cutters and trimmers who struck yesterday.

Frank Rosenblum, secretary of the Amalgamated Clothiers' Union, who is in charge of the strike, plans to call out about 2,000 workers a day. Strikers stationed pickets at the plants which are under police guard.

school faculty, $100; B. F. Welty, in honor of his mother, who died during the campaign, $100; "Julia N. Bussert, age 40 hours, $5"; Shawnee Commandery, Knights Templar, $100; Young Ladies' Aid society of Market Street Presbyterian church, $25.

Other donations announced by the general committee from firms in other cities dealing with local concerns, included $100 from Maximilian Stern, of New York, tobacco importer, whose support was enlisted by the Delsel-Wemmer company; Kaufman and Strauss, New York, advertising specialty dealers, secured through the same agency, $50; Sartorium and company, New York tobacco leaders, lauded by the Delsel-Wemmer company, $50. In addition to these, donations varying from $10 to $100 are reported from nearby towns. The high school boys sent two men to the Lima State hospital this morning and three went to Cridersville. According to M. C. Williams, who is in charge of the various phases of the campaign, the youngsters will be bringing in donations from the poor farm next.

In the summary for today the team of W. T. Feely's missing, for the latter and his co-workers were at the Garford plant soliciting subscriptions from the workmen. Later advices make the report for the morning about $800, which boosts the grand total for the campaign to more than $110,000.

Co-operation at the Lima Locomotive plant has been worked out to a science, according to T. D. McLaughlin. There the foremen have been organized, with the workers under orders to follow the same plan in use with the 225 campaigners. Each group is divided into sets of solicitors to cover the shops, with the same plan as is used to record donations at the Y. M. C. A. office.

A supper will be served at the gymnasium this evening at six o'clock, when the final returns will be read off. The deficit will then be covered, for the general staff intends to make a supreme effort to raise the needed sum before the stroke of twelve tonight. Either the teams will be turned loose on the town or the governing committee will send picked workers to solicit the aid of donors not yet reported.

At that time it is expected that several surprises will be sprung. It has been a noticeable feature throughout the campaign that appreciable support has come from unexpected quarters. Many have given more than would have been expected under other conditions, while some with greater means have not been heard from. It is not impossible that telegrams will then be read from former inmates now released in other cities, or from concerns which have not yet been interviewed because of lack of opportunity.

DOGS BRING BACK CAPS OF WOUNDED FROM BATTLE ZONE

In Absence of Headpieces Animals Take Other Articles of Clothing.

One Searcher Discovers Listening Post, Hunted For Weeks.

PARIS, May 9.—Hunting dogs make poor war dogs, according to one of the specialists who have been training these animals at the front. Another development of the experience of a year and a half is that the female is superior to the male.

The French war dogs are now divided into five classes—dog sentinels, patrol dogs, dispatch bearers, ambulance dogs, draft dogs.

For all but the draft dogs French breeds are now preferred. They are mostly recruited from the region of the Beauce, good rustic shepherds that know all the secrets of the ground and mountain dogs from the Pyrenees, used to roughing it over difficult country.

These breeds are about the only ones that continue effective through all the transformations that the first line of defense undergoes. To get the most out of them it is necessary to specialize them, the all-around war dog existing only in the imagination.

Stories have been told of dogs that have been taught to growl signals into a telephone and to ring bells on the approach of a cloud of suffocating gas. What the dog has really learned to do is sufficient without attributing to him fantastic attainments.

Dogs have carried messages between posts three miles apart, arriving infallibly at their destinations and returning to the point of departure, fearless of shells and deaf to any appeals made to them en route. Not even the frequent upheaval of the ground over which they have once passed and the confusion of trails can put them off their course.

"To reach this degree of perfection," says the trainer, "one must take the greatest care to avoid even the appearance of brutality toward the pupil; the dog must never be frightened while he is learning his duties. The ambulance dog must seek, rather than trail the wounded man, and the regulations governing their use have been found to be deficient as their development has proceeded.

The rules prescribe, for instance, that the dog must be taught to bring back the cap of the wounded man he has found. Wounded men, however, in a great many instances no longer have a cap when they are discovered, they may have a helmet with the jugular under the chin so that the dog cannot get it off.

The intelligent dog, fortunately, when he has finished the training period, understands what is wanted of him and that the bringing in of a cap is only a detail; in the absence of the regulation cap he seeks anything else belonging to the man he has found.

"The most approved method of training now is summed up in the words 'Fetch! Fetch and seek wounded! Seek wounded and fetch!'

"At the end of three months of training in this order the dog understands what he is to look for and that he is to make his master understand that he has found someone, whether it be by an object brought back in his mouth or by any other manifestation that his intelligence suggests.

"Sometimes they bring in a tobacco pouch, a cigar lighter, anything they find in a man's pocket in default of a cap or handkerchief.

"Another mistake in the regulations was the requirement that the dog be trained to return to his master in a straight line. The good searcher operates in a zigzag course and it is natural for him to get back by the same route."

The efficiency of the dog sentinel was illustrated by an incident at an important point on the front where one of these animals suddenly began trotting obliquely toward the right and making signs that there was present in that direction something that was foreign to the trench.

"There is something going on yonder," said his conductor.

"Your mongrel is dreaming," replied a soldier. "We have a sharp lookout there; there's nothing."

"There must be a patrol leaving the trenches over there or going back."

"Nothing at all," insisted the lookout.

"There's something over there, just the same; perhaps it's a listening post dug in toward our lines."

The officer commanding the section being notified, ordered the firing of three illuminating fuses and in the glare three blond German heads were seen over the parapet of an advanced trench.

"That's capital," exclaimed the officer. "That dog has discovered in an instant a listening post that we have been looking for these two months."

MAKES ICE FROM BOILING WATER

Professor Also is Able to Cook an Egg at Freezing Point.

In one of his recent experiments Dr. P. W. Bridgman of the department of chemistry at Harvard university, found that by subjecting water to extremely heavy pressure he was able to crystallize it at nearly the boiling point.

Water at a temperature of thousands of degrees above zero, a temperature where the hardest metals melt, can thus be converted into ice. In the interior of the earth, where water sustains very high pressure, this hot ice may now be supposed to exist, in spite of the tremendous heat.

Other liquids, some twenty-two in number, have been forced to attain a form of solidity as the result of high pressure. Among the unique results obtained by Dr. Bridgman was the ability to boil an egg at the freezing point.

By subjecting the egg to a pressure of 180,000 pounds to the square inch the friction caused by the molecules of matter rubbing against one another produced heat sufficient to cook the egg.

The classic theory has been that above a certain "critical temperature," every element must perforce turn into the gaseous form, but Dr. Bridgman's experiments seem to dispose this hypothesis.

It is now demonstrated that, by employing pressures fifteen or twenty times those produced in modern artillery, a liquid can be converted into a solid despite a temperature which, at ordinary pressures, would make it turn into gas or vapor.

The ice which is formed in this way by pressure is different from ordinary ice, for it is denser than water and therefore sinks instead of floating. It has long been thought by physicists that by means of pressure one element might possibly be converted into another element, or at least into a new form.

This is illustrated in fact in the case of the diamond, which is made of the same carbon as ordinary coal but which we now know is formed at extremely high temperatures and under extremely high pressure.

Diamonds have been produced artificially by Moissan and others by combining pressure with high heat on common charcoal. Dr. Bridgman by subjecting phosphorus to a pressure of 13 tons to the square inch was able to change it into a novel form in which it resembled graphite.

The interior of the earth is a molten mass which theoretically ought to be in a gaseous form, owing to the high temperatures, but it is likely that the high pressure more than counterbalances the effect of the temperature and that the mass is in a solid state, and not gaseous, or even liquid.

Scientists have calculated in fact that the interior of the earth must be denser than steel; and we can understand this paradox, now that Bridgman has made such a clear proof of it.—The Pathfinder.

JUVENILE COUPLE PARTED BY COURT

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Ernie J. Scott were parted today by the juvenile court. Scott was sent home to his parents and his bride of a day was placed in the custody of her sister, Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer. Scott is 18 and his bride who was Dolly Carter, is 17. They obtained a license and were married by a justice of the peace in Monroe, Mich. It was on complaint of Mrs. Pfeiffer that the child elopers were taken into juvenile court here. Scott earns $7.50 a week.

BIG PROBLEM FOR BOARD IS HIGH SCHOOL OVERFLOW

Portable Structures May be Used For New Attendance in Fall.

Preparing Plans For New High School Building on South Side.

Members of the school board failed to arrive at any agreement in regard to the manner in which the overflow pupils who are expected to attend Lima high school next year will be taken care of, although a number of plans were submitted for the approval of the board.

Superintendent Collins is of the opinion that this number will reach close to 200, if the average increase in the last five years is maintained. He stated that even at the present time the overcrowded condition of the high school building was such that it has proved a handicap.

Although most members of the board favor buying several portable buildings to house the overflow crowd from high school, until the new building has been constructed, Dr. Terwilliger argued against the plan, stating that many of the teachers would object to teaching in such a building.

If the plan suggested, is adopted, only freshmen and sophomores will be housed in the temporary buildings, making it necessary for those taking domestic science and manual training courses to go to the high school building. It is planned to locate the portable buildings on some vacant lot on the south side. Several buildings on the south side are also looked on favorably as temporary sites for the housing school pupils.

For the purpose of obtaining definite plans and ideas in regard to the construction of the new high school building on the south side, a trip will be taken next week by members of the board. The trip which is to require three days will take in the most modern equipped schools in this part of the country. The investigation committee will leave for Toledo next Tuesday morning, and all of the schools of that city visited. On Wednesday the party will go to Kalamazoo, Michigan, where special attention will be paid to the form of Gary schools installed there. On Thursday schools in Grand Rapids and Detroit will be visited.

According to Superintendent Collins 600 pounds of paper has been baled in the high school during the past week. Paper dealers pay from 40 to 50 cents a hundred pounds for the used paper. Waste paper from the high school buildings will be sold to junk dealers instead of being sent to high school to be baled.

Mrs. Cleady Burden is recovering from an operation for appendicitis, to which she was subjected at the City Hospital. Her mother, Mrs. William Konst, came from Wapakoneta yesterday, to spend the day with her daughter.

THE BOYS ASSIST

It is a pleasing and refreshing spectacle, when nearly a hundred high school boys set out on the last day of the Y. M. C. A. campaign to do their humble share toward building a new home for the association. Age and experience considered, the boys have the men faded to a gray bloom, as George Ada would phrase it. Not only are they ahead in energy and effectiveness, but the spirit of rivalry is much keener with the young than with the older. The boys of Lima High school realize what the new Y. M. C. A. will mean, and because the proposed edifice is for them they are heart and soul behind the movement.

Psychologists are at variance as to the age at which men are at their best, but for vitality and vigor the lad between sixteen and twenty is far better than his father. This is the age in which the mind is most retentive, the love of a fight keener and the imagination most easily stimulated. Instead of calling in a dignified manner on prospective contributors the boys will dash up breathlessly and demand a subscription. Their methods are those of youth, which are undisciplined but decidedly effective. To refuse is to become the target for a volley of verbal contempt which few can withstand. The newsboy and the bootblack on the streets are the keenest wits of the nation. Their repartee is ahead of Chauncey Depew's best after-dinner oration. And every man with common sense knows better than to bare himself to the sharp shafts of a young boy's wrath.

That is but one of the reasons why the boys of Lima are delivering the "goods" in the Y. M. C. A. campaign. They are getting small do nations, but scores of them. They have sense enough to work as hard for a dollar as for a hundred and in the end their percentage will overshadow their elders. They are to live and here's hoping they get their new building. It means more to them than to the donor of a sum running into four figures. Go to it, boys, the towns behind you.

BUSINESS CANDIDATES

Oranby McHarg, famed for his connections with a dozen political movements in recent years is flooding the nation with literature demanding a business man for the presidency. Republicans and Democrats alike he expects to nominate a friend, recently a broker in non-affiliation for the office of chief executive. He does not state whom he has in mind, but he represents a corner of Wall Street, maintains an interest in the company of T. Columbus du Pont, owner of the great Equitable building in New York and a member of the famous Delaware family of powder kings.

As far as we can judge from the literature sent out by McHarg, the nation demands a man whose interests are those of the corporate interests opposed to the Underwood tariff. He must be a man whose sole political creed is in high protection. He must represent that school of governmental philosophy which makes reciprocity for station reaching back to Van Buren and Hamilton. He is to be a follower of the creeds of Henry, Adams and Calhoun.

We hope the Republican party nominates a man of that type for the election would be merely a question of timing up Wilson's overwhelming plurality. The rubber tariff is dead—let us hope for ever. The age of prejudiced legislation and selfish executive administration is dying—let us hope the end is at hand. No longer can the state be controlled by the representatives of trusts, for the dirt election scheme has knocked Hamilton across the eyes. The man who is the brand of Morgan and Rockefeller has a small chance against the candidate of the public.

It is no longer common for the opponent of Wall Street to be met with the cry of "demagogue," for the stump speaker who preaches anarchy is quite as much out of date as the one who preaches monarchy. This is neither the age of the upper "four hundred" nor that of the agitator who capitalizes class hatred. The great middle class, the thinking million—who are neither extremely wealthy nor extremely poverty-stricken, is in the saddle, and unless his business candidate represents more than merely "big" business, McHarg will find himself a long way from successful in November.

DUST

Three months ago Lima was condemning the muddy condition of her paved streets. Today it is the dust which bothers us. Between the two the mud is preferable, for mud does not fly up to clog the nostrils, irritate the eyes and make the mouth taste like a section of the bottom of a stagnant pond.

Frequently enough the city authorities are shown the cause of the trouble. Inadequate sweeping facilities are partially responsible, but have you noticed that the dustiest streets are those along which pass wagons laden with dirt excavated from cellars? That is the case, and in the vicinity of a building site where ground is being removed, dust clouds are commonest.

This is because the wagons are loaded and the dirt is permitted to sprinkle along the streets. Wheels of wagons and automobiles grind the chunks of clay into powder, which is carried about on every fitful gust of wind.

The city council has done much for the teamsters this year, giving them an appreciable increase in pay and offering other inducements to work efficiently. Would it be unfair to ask the teamsters to make tight their wagon beds, so as to eliminate much of the dust nuisance? Reciprocity is the basis of friendship in business, and we believe that the city should ask for this restriction.

The house of representatives has defeated the army increase bill, which raised the fighting force to 250,000 men. Perhaps the congressional men are afraid to increase the political power of such leaders as Charles Dick, Cap Gale and a few others we might name.

Over in Bluffton Friday evening a speaker urged college students to get into the political game. Some day when the students have entered into the city of Bluffton might come to utter a few remarks on the question.

Those society women who spent this winter knitting soy for the belated might not be kind to the American troops who get caught in Arctic nooses.

About a year from now some unknown voter will begin to look up the records to see a copy of our alleged wealthy city officials' campaign across the Y. M. C. A.

It might not be a bad idea to solicit subscriptions among the police officials and patriots of the Y. M. C. A. will mean less work for them.

What has become of the obnoxious movie show which had a big phonograph horn sticking out of the front, with about seven records alternating?

GOOD EVENING Two bits we get that new Y. M. C. A. Any

NEW NOTES &amp; MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

EVERYONE IN Los Angeles has some connection with the motion picture industry. It is estimated that half a million people can trace the source of their income to the films. And the rest, merchants, professional men and the like, share in the general prosperity. School girls want to emulate Mary Pickford and Blanche Sweet, and some of them do. Healy Love, a Los Angeles high school girl, is one who did, and in the short space of a single year she rose to leading lady in some of the most important Tri- angle feature photo plays.

First she played as an "extra" being observant, she soon became acquainted with the demands of the work, and when Joan Emerson came from the east to star in "The Flying Torpedo," and she was given the part of a Swedish servant girl, she seized the opportunity to show herself as one of the leading figures of the film. Soon after that, with entire success, she played with William S. Hart in "The Arvan." Then Douglas Fairbanks came and borrowed her for his play, "The Good Hei Man." She shortly is to appear with Fairbanks in another feature called "Reggie Mixes In."

DeWolf Hopper in "Casey at the Bat."

Director Lloyd Ingraham is ready to stake his life that he has found the small town where there are more fans than in Mudville, and to this place he and the Fine Arts Company producing "Casey at the Bat," with DeWolf Hopper as Casey, have now gone. A former professional baseball player has been secured to assist in the direction, and Fine Arts players make up two entire base ball teams. A cast composed of Marguerite Marsh, Frank Bennett, Kate Toneray, Carl Stockdale, Elmo Lincoln and Mae Giriel have been selected to support the big comedian, who looks like a giant in his base ball uniform.

BAALBEC.

Baalbec is the city of the sun. Here the sun-god was worshipped thousands of years ago; here the ruins of his great temple still stand, monstrous and majestic, a wonder and a mystery to another age and another race. Here, too, the sun today still seems to smile with particular warmth and fervor, as though regarding his faithful capital now that his place in the hierarchy of deities is gone.

In the ruins of Baalbec you can trace the rise and fall of almost every creed that the near east, rich in creeds, has known. The very stones still bear about that were raised by the worshippers of Baal whom the Israelites overthrew. Then came the Greeks and the Romans, with temples to Apollo and Jupiter, Bacchus and Venus. The warlike Arabs left their mark in a circle of fortifications, temples to a religion of the sword. Today the Turk holds dominion, and his modern mosques raise their frail domed heads, like the transient structures of children, beside the mighty monuments of the past.

In plain terms of the guide-books, Baalbec is a little Turkish village of 5,000 people situated near some of the most remarkable ruins on earth. So there are two Baalbecs, the city of yesterday and the city of today. Modern Baalbec has its mosques and its churches and its schools, sends its recruits to the sultan's armies and makes pilgrims to the temple of Bacchus where its young men and maidens hold

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vit importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water you can't drink too much, also get from any person at least about four ounces of Jad Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before the first ash morning for a few days and your kidneys will get fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the blood so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which every one should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

HEALTH HINTS

MOTHER-TO-BE SHOULD HAVE THE BEST OF CARE

Here are some things every prospective mother should learn before baby comes. Motherhood should never cause fear. Giving birth to a baby is natural and normal. As soon as you know a baby is coming, engage the best doctor you can afford and place yourself under his care.

If you cannot afford a doctor, apply to a hospital or dispensary where experienced doctors and nurses will advise and care for you.

A nervous, overworked, underfed woman cannot expect to have a strong, vigorous, healthy child.

The expectant mother requires an extra amount of sleep and a day-time rest for an hour or two if possible. She should keep the windows open while she sleeps.

Much climbing of stairs and the use of the sewing machine should be avoided.

Walking in the open air is beneficial to the expectant mother. Exercise in the fresh air and house work with the windows open are better than medicine.

Violent exercise in any form should be avoided.

Daily bathing is necessary for the best health of the mother.

Loose, comfortable clothing is essential to the comfort of the mother and the welfare of the child. Skirts and dresses should hang from the shoulders. Tight bands about the waist or chest should not be allowed.

For Caloused Feet. Please tell us what to do for my sore feet. I have such caloused places on the sides of ed what it could reach with its own sunset hues. Few sights are so beautiful as Baalbec on a clear spring evening. The five great columns of the sun rear their slender heights heavenwards like the trunks of giant palms.

The tumbled temple-stones glow golden in the level rays, while below stretches the tender green of young grain, the delicate bloom of wide orchards. The rocks of the columns crumble with the passing of ages, but the bloom of growing life that blights at a frosty breath returns ever fresh and new spring after spring, eternally.

THE EASIEST WAY

Do things by telephone. It is the modern way. If a guest to your dinner or theatre party fails you at the last moment, you can easily replace him by using the telephone. It takes time to write and deliver a note, and explanations are hard to make in writing.

The telephone carries your personality direct to the person with whom you talk, and it brings an immediate reply.

In hot weather, use the telephone. The busy housewife dreads the morning caller. She has risen early to despatch the day's work, that she may rest during the heat of the day. She refuses to answer the door bell or sends a maid to say "not at home."

Everybody is at home, at all times of the day or night to the telephone.

It brings assistance quickly.

It carries words of comfort.

It saves time and affords the opportunity for minds to meet through direct, voice to voice communication, and costs only five cents a day.

Gas Service Is Instantaneous

How long does it take to heat your home?

If the house feels chilly or damp—do you have to go down in the cellar and go through the laborious process of building a fire?

Or do you merely have to light a match, turn a valve—and wait a few minutes for welcome warmth and comfort?

In other words, have you heating work or heat-in service in your home?

PHILADELPHIA MOBILIZES AN ARMY OF 10,000

While Nation Discusses, the Quaker City Enrolls
Men For Service.

GOAL IS TO BE 48,000

Drexel Biddle Moving Spirit
in Most Unique Military Force in U. S.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 10.—Philadelphia is mobilizing. While most of the nation is discussing preparedness, Philadelphia has 10,000 men ready, in theory at least, to take the field. When the recent summer crisis arose with Germany, the leaders of the local army were secretary Baker that their 10,000 stood behind him.

The organization is formally known as Philadelphia's Citizens Army, and intends eventually to recruit up to a strength of 48,000. Moreover in the large plants which inspire the founders, Philadelphia's corps is to be only the nucleus of a National Citizens Army of a million men.

Locally people speak of the corps as "Drexel Biddle's Citizen Army," or more familiarly as "Biddle's Army." Therein lies the whole story for this is a unique army, a paradoxical army. It is one man's army, yet it gets more men than the National Guard. It is a rich man's army, yet in some ways it is an ideal army for a poor man to join.

The army had its birth in Mr. A. J. Drexel Biddle's brain. He is a figure pretty well known to American newspaper readers, his exploits as an amateur boxer combined with his sudden determination to found a world-wide chain of Bible classes having given material for much picturesque "copy." Less well known perhaps, is the fact that his Bible classes have been pushed along until they number 150,000 members. Now he is pushing his army in something the same way.

The original idea of the corps, and the idea that still animates its leaders, simply to "show Congress that it can be done." Several months ago it became apparent that the country wanted preparedness, but the powers that seemed unable to decide just where to begin and what to do Philadelphia's Citizen Army is in the nature of a concrete suggestion, a laboratory demonstration of how citizen armies are built.

Being well endowed with this world's goods and in close touch with men of wealth, Mr. Biddle was in a position to put his ideas into practice. He wanted to get the rank and file of Philadelphia out and give them military training, somewhat after the Swiss or the Australian fashion, without interfering with their regular work. If the citizens of Philadelphia really wanted an army corps, was the implication, let them come out and form me, without waiting for instructions from authority.

At first it looked as if they didn't want one. After lengthy negotiations, a number of officers were loaned by the government to act as drill-masters. Thousands of recruiting circulars were sent around explaining the scheme, and setting the first meeting at Lansdowne, a country place near Philadelphia. Thousand of dollars were spent to get publicity. Front-page advertisements were inserted in the newspapers. When the day arrived, it found Mr. Biddle at Lansdowne with ten officers. The recruits were there too—as many as sixteen of them.

The new army was apparently a tiasco. It looked like failure. But Mr. Biddle remembered his Bible class experience, when he had started with four men. He looked over 16 recruits, and they were a heterogeneous collection, especially from the religious point of view. There were three Jews, four Roman Catholics, an atheist or two, and members of several Protestant denominations. Nevertheless, the aggregation were called on to start the army by saying the Lord's prayer. This they did and the first drill was postponed while the recruiting campaign went on.

Before long the tide began to turn and enough men came out to start the drilling. After two weeks, names were pouring in, until now, as stated before, the corps numbers 10,000, with a fair prospect of getting the 48,000 set for a goal.

The work consists in bi-weekly drills with strenuous week-end drilling at Lansdowne. Saturday and Sunday are devoted to the latter, and into these two days the men in charge are contriving to cram 28 hours of military practice of one kind or another. Tents, food and equipment are furnished.

In the matter of meeting expenses, the corps is calling the wealthy men of Philadelphia. A campaign has just been launched to raise $500,000 to cover the cost of prospective expansion. The theory is that each recruit shall pay for as much as he can, or will. If he is in good circumstances, he can take care of all his own expenses, get his military training, and do his duty as a citizen. If he is some one equally willing but too poor to go to any extra expense, the corps will do it for him. It is claimed for such a system that it is based on real justice. Men of wealth have most at stake in case of war. They have most to lose in disaster, most to protect under any circumstances. It is no more than their duty that they should come forward with the money to equip defenders, if the defenders are willing to give their time, which is all they have, toward making themselves efficient. Moreover, wealth comes to most men late in life, when they are past the fighting age. They can do their share by helping some youth with a smaller bank-account to learn to handle a rifle.

Many large employers of labor have been won over. There is one detachment of the corps which consist of 1200 bakers. All these bakers came from a single big bakery, and their uniforms are furnished them by their employer. Several of the department stores have uniformed as many of their employees as cared to join. One jewelry store has 64 uniformed men in the field.

Recruiting is still going actively. Sometimes as many as a 100 men join in a day. To stimulate interest, a unique exhibit has been set up on the ground floor of one of the big downtown office buildings. It includes all sorts of souvenirs of the European war, in the shape of helmets, rifles, big ugly-looking shells, a modern camp, an aeroplane, even the somewhat discouraging figure of a wounded soldier attended by a pretty Red Cross nurse. This last, however is a part of the contribution of the Pennsylvania Woman's Division for National Preparedness, which is cooperating in the exhibition as are half a dozen other organizations of kindred purpose, such as the state division of the Navy League.

In spite of the fact that it is by way of being a protégé of wealth and society, the Citizen Army is democratic. The men who are backing it are in dead earnest, and efficiency is the only yardstick. Some young actions of Philadelphia's first families are serving in the ranks, under the command of men who work at a trade. One of the best captains in the organization spends his working hours laying bricks.

The obligations incurred by the man who signs his name as a recruit are of course less definite than those he undertakes to fulfill when joining the National Guard. He is not pledged to any course of action except that he promises to defend his country, and to work faithfully at acquiring a military training. Nevertheless the leaders of the corps believe firmly that their men can be counted on in any contingency that may arise, as witness their telegram to the Secretary of War.

The unique feature of the Citizen Army is the use it has made of the resources of men of wealth. By paying all expenses for those who can not pay their own, even down to making good a loss of salary when an employer will not give time off without taking it out of the pay envelope, the system puts military training within reach of everybody who wants it. It has put the question of preparedness squarely up to the citizen himself, leaving him to answer it in an unmistakable way by his own actions.

The Citizen Army hopes to grow until it is a national organization. Plans are already made for starting corps in many other cities, among them Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh. In each new city the same double problem will have to be faced that was solved in Philadelphia—first how to arouse the people, and second how to secure the cooperation of men of means. The ultimate goal is an organization a million strong, covering the country. The men who want that corps have no particular desire to keep it in their own hands. They want preparedness. They are willing to work with anybody who is working for preparedness, ready to affiliate with anything that promises to further the end. They ask nothing better than to have their corps taken over by the government. They believe that what the country really wants is a non-militaristic citizen army. They are trying to show that it can be done.

OHIO ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY TO THE REST OF WORLD

O. K. Shimansky Portrays the Special Merits of Buckeye State.

Not in Politics But in Production of Life's Good Things.

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—O. H. Shimansky, editor of the Ohio Journal of Commerce, delivers himself of the following comprehensive boost for the state of Ohio:

Ohio, in pure American, says "follow me," and the world gets kinks in it knee trying to do so.

If Ohio were an isolated island and out of touch with the rest of the world, its people would live happily and prosper, for Ohio produces everything within its own borders that is necessary to the most extravagant living.

But Ohio never will sever relations with the universe because such an act would work a hardship on humanity in general and particularly on the people of the United States. For without Ohio this land of the free and home of the brave would at regular intervals be without presidents, without cabinet members, without government clerks and porters and without political experience—for politics in Ohio takes the place of the building blocks and dolls of the male and female youth and continues a source of pleasure and profit until Ohio is left for a less popular place; wherever that may be. Ohioans are such perfect politicians that any or all of them can advise the president precisely what to do in world-war affairs, or settle the tariff debate for him.

Would Rob the World.
Isolation of Ohio as an empire by itself would rob the world of the Edison, the Rockefeller, the Grants, of the Carys, Altes and Phoebe of an unending list of inventors, financiers, generals, artists, writers, manufacturing kings, merchant princes and farm lords who have made their commonwealth stand out in the sisterhood of states like a beauty spot on the Ohio lady's face. And parenthetically it may be remarked that as far as pulchritude is concerned, artificialities are known to the Ohio woman and are as unnecessary as silk stockings for a mermaid.

Ohio spells efficiency. Which accounts for the fact that the Buckeye State sends so many products of the soil, shop and school to the uttermost points of the world and has an illimitable supply in reserve. Ohio's farms raise the finest crops because those who run them are practical farmers and not theoretical agriculturists. Ohio farming is successful because the Ohio digestion is good. Ohio farmers are among the leaders in economic thought. They have such decided opinions on public questions that they have made the whole state a debating society. If they cannot argue taxation and home rule with the city folks they will discuss the proper ratio for 60-pound shotguns among themselves.

It's Up to Farmers.
The economic debates between city and country are decided at the polls, and as the farmer votes so goes the issue. Ohio is wisely informed because it is so well newspapered. There isn't a state in the Union that has so much printed circulation per unit. Ohio manufacturers lead the world. They have the biggest automobile and rubber tire plants; they make the most soap; they crocheted by machinery the finest of "imported" laces; they make millions of pieces of glassware and pottery; they make canny machinery that blows bottles; they build telescopes that al-

The inland seas on the north and the Ohio River on the east and south give the state a shipping tonnage unequaled by few salt water states and its fisheries make possible the preparation of "Russian" caviar by the ton.

Ohio has its own coal, its own natural gas, its own hardwood lumber, its own clay products, its own limestone and gypsum and cement marl beds. And out of the circumambient atmosphere it makes the finest grade of electric energy.

Ohio manufacturers are big money makers and pay liberal wages; Ohio farmers are independently well-off because their crops, their dairy products and their live stock always command a premium; Ohio financiers have to be anchored to Buckeye State soil to keep them from being hauled to eastern money centers; Ohio's labor is so skilled that extra state employers plead with them to change their field of operations; Ohio's educators and professional men are so wise they are happy—and Ohio's women are neither rantankerous suffragists nor post-tiferous antis.

Ohio is the cash register for the world, and yet—

And yet the restive Ohioans are not so busy making money that they cannot do big things for all the people.

Ohio is the lone eastern state that enjoys people's power through the initiative and referendum which are available as state-wide legislative instruments as well as for municipalities. It has a workmen's compensation law. It gives pensions to dependent mothers. It closes its saloons before midnight and actually keeps them closed on Sunday, under the provisions of a successful license and regulatory law. It permits municipalities to decide on their own plan of government with the result that every known form of government is on trial—known to proportional voting, which is unknown elsewhere in the Antipodes.

Ohio has wonderful complex primary election laws—the kind that compel a president to give consent to the use of his name before would-be delegates to a national convention can declare for him; and it has the worst taxation laws—so bad, that single taxers are getting hearings that surprise even those radicals, and maybe Ohio will also claim the credit some day of being the first state to adopt the land value tax in lieu of other taxes.

Wait! Ohio did have a land value tax early in the nineteenth century. Ohio encourages agriculture. Its cities foster vocational training. Its child labor laws are models for the shower states. Its female citizens have partial suffrage, for they vote on educational propositions. Its judicial system has been so remodeled that there are no complaints about its practices. Its voters are so discriminating that they keep political parties busier than the proverbial what-ever-it-is that jumps from the frying pan to the fire. Ohio does many advanced things that by comparison 47 other states are reactionary.

Ohio men and women are busy, fearfully busy with their own engrossing affairs, but they take plenty of time to devise ways and means to help others to live happy healthy, busy lives.

In Ohio to be happy means to be busy and useful, and Ohio welcomes people who want to be happy.

SOME STARTLING PROSPERITY FIGURES

Steel Workers Wages Advance $2,000,000 a month,
Better Times Coming.

In March of this year establishments in the iron and steel industry of the United States paid out in wages nearly $2,000,000 more than they paid out during March of 1915. These are official figures made public by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor. They show in a startling way the present unexampled prosperity of the country.

Reports received by the federal reserve board from all parts of the United States, and made public in a recent issue of the federal reserve bulletin, are agreed that the wave of prosperity in this country is not yet at its crest. The principal industries are booked with orders up to their capacity as well into 1917. "Hard times" will cut very little figure in this year's political campaign, therefore.

With wages and profits going up, the cost of living, at least so far as food is concerned, appears to be going down. Reports to the bureau of labor statistics from 735 retail dealers in 44 of the principal industrial cities of the United States covering the principal staple articles of food show that for the month from January 15 to February 15, 1916, the price of food, taken as a whole, declined two per cent.

GIVING

JUST at this time when there is so much agitation on the part of everyone for the success of the Y. M. C. A. money, we began to think how little we can give insofar as money is concerned. We have all said to ourselves and to everybody else that if we just had a little more of the world's goods we would only be too glad to give more. Of course, it is all right, but then it is all wrong, because we are putting too much stress on the material side of the question. There are a good many ways other than giving money that can help the work of the Y. M. C. A. along, which not only applies to that certain thing but to every walk of life. Yesterday there was a man who said his soul grew sick when he saw men younger than himself, newer to the field of business than he, gave sums triple what he was able. But on the other hand he had given all he could, and more than the others, for his life has been one of public service to all who have needed him.

Mothers, you realize that a Y. M. C. A. means to your boy, to your sister's boy, but just because you aren't able to be listed with those who have given big sums of money to build the place your boys need so badly, don't think that you can't help just as much in other ways. Kindness, real personal service in behalf of others, is beyond a price. We don't appreciate things that we get for nothing, do we, but we should. Don't forget that the big things are but an accumulation of little things and that although we need the big things, the little ones are just as important. Do your part, whether it be little or big in the eyes of the world, its your heart that makes the gift and it is not so much the gift, as it is the giving, that counts.

MARIE N. NAGEL

A man's praises have musical and charming accents in another's mouth; but are flat and untunable in his own.—Xenophon.

THIS evening at the First Baptist church, Mrs. Helen Merri Schuster-Martin of Cincinnati, will give a reading. Mrs. Schuster-Martin is without any doubt an artist and shows her talent to the best possible advantage in the play "Dissolvi" written by Parker. Such a reading would be appalling handled by an amateur but one need have no fear that Mrs. Martin will in any way fall down in her interpretation and presentation. The play itself is absorbing from the minute it begins until it ends.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Martin after lunching with the members of the Shakespeare Study club at the Elks' Home, will give another recital at the First Baptist church for the Shakespeare club and their guests.

Rehearsals for the Business Women's club minstrel are steadily going on, and the production will be given May 23 and 24. Among those who will appear are Miss Helen Wemmer, Miss Margaret Hoagland, Miss Blanche Finley, Miss Mildred Rudy, Mrs. Allen Khale Mowen, Mrs. Berda Fritts Ewing, Mrs. Edgar E. Curtis, Miss Lillian Johnson, Miss Irene Wetherill and Miss Irene Buckley. Charles Cleveland has charge of the production.

A pleasant summer living room, recently done over, was treated to hangings, chair cushions and table cover of a quaint chintz showing oval medallions of gay flowers laid at intervals against a background of soft gray stripes. When the curtains were hung, it was found that the holland shades were quite out of harmony with the chintz. The ingenious woman who had the problem in hand promptly had some new shades made of unbleached muslin, held taut with a small brass rod in the hem instead of the usual strip of wood. Just above the hem she applied several of the flowered medallions cut from the chintz. The light shining through them gave a pretty effect, and the shades were a novel and consistent addition to the room.

One of the most delightful of meetings will be that to be held this evening at Trinity Methodist church, under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary society. The meeting was changed from afternoon to evening that four city school teachers might be hostesses. They are Mrs. Minnie Curless, Misses Lettie Reed, Lillian Radabaugh and Wessie Baker.

The rose drill, which merited such applause when given at the entertainment last evening at the church, will be repeated by the small children who took part.

The musical features of the program will be exceptionally beautiful. Miss Margaret Barrington will play, Trinity quartette will sing and the Philm orchestra, with Miss Ruth June as accompanist, will favor with numbers.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Ross E. Mullen, Mrs. Edward Cristy, Mrs. H. D. Austin and the women of Mrs. Mullen's division of the society. Members and mission workers of the city are invited. Husband and wife are welcome to attend.

Mrs. C. D. Boone of East Market street, was the guest Tuesday of her daughter, Mrs. I. A. Freyer of Wapakoneta.

Mrs. Henry Zerbst and her sister, Mrs. W. P. Jones of West Rutland, Vermont, left yesterday for Cleveland for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. J. T. Luscombe and sons, Harold and Edgar entertained Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Mabel Deisher of Bucyrus, her sister, Miss Rhea E. Tracht, physical director of the local Business Woman's club, and Mrs. Emma Bradley, mother of Mrs. Luscomb of Alberta, Canada.

Miss Mabel Brees entertained the members of the Progressive Needlework club at her home yesterday afternoon. Fourteen members answered roll call and guests who enjoyed the afternoon were Mrs. Hovor, Mrs. Walter Brees and Miss Maude Nikerson. A contest made an interesting break in the monotony of the sewing and the prizes were won by Mrs. Brees and Mrs. Bowers. Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting after which the club adjourned to meet again in two weeks with Mrs. Harry Noll.

Miss Mary Stolzenbach will leave Friday for Delaware to be the guest for several days of the Misses Marjorie Borges and Elizabeth Newson who are seniors this year at the Ohio Wesleyan university.

Members of the Shakespeare club will take luncheon tomorrow noon with Mrs. Helen Merri Schuster-Martin at the Elks' Home. Afterwards, Mrs. Martin will give a recital to the club and its guests at the First Baptist church.

Miss Pauline Jones was hostess of the Dolphian club which met this afternoon. Officers for the coming year and committees were elected. An interesting program was also given.

"There is nothing in the article to cause resentment." This is the opinion of Mrs. Prudence Rood, ex-president of the Toledo federation of women's clubs and president-elect of the Toledo Women's Educational club, in regard to an article in the General Federation's magazine suggesting proper wearing apparel at the biennial convention of women's clubs in New York this month.

When the article appeared protests arose from women in cities all over the United States. The article was taken to mean that no one but New York women knew how to dress. The wall became so loud that officers of the general federation issued a flat denial that the article was intended to imply that idea. They said the article was a paid advertisement.

"I think that is a silly attitude for women to take," Mrs. Rood continued. "New York women did not volunteer suggestions because they felt superior in any way."

"They merely published the information that a tailored suit, pretty blouses, an evening gown and an evening coat would be all the clothes necessary for the visiting women."

Members of the membership committee of the Music club met yesterday with Mrs. Luah Butler of West Spring street. The afternoon was devoted to arranging the lists of applicants for membership. Mrs. Butler is chairman of the committee which consists of Mrs. A. L. White, Mrs. Minor Keltner, Mrs. Dexter, Mrs. Charles Preston, Mrs. M. S. Thompson, Miss Gail Watson and Miss Nellie Kriete. Mrs. R. O. Woods, secretary, attends. It is especially requested that all signed cards for membership next year will be sent before Saturday to Mrs. R. O. Woods.

From the Bloomfield Democrat the following interesting item was gathered: "Mr. W. J. Steckel, one of the trustees of the Iowa Wesleyan university recently gave $10,000 to swell a half million endowment fund for which the university is working. There was only one other person who precedes Mr. Steckel in the amount of his gift, and the fact that two persons gave so much in a lump sum was the occasion of much enthusiasm on the part of the students." Mr. Steckel is the husband of Miss Belle Hughes, the sister of Kent W. Hughes.

Miss Marguerite Zender, of West High street, has as her guest Miss Stella Cable, of Sandusky.

Mrs. Virgil Kniesly, of West Market street, will entertain the members of the Junior Bridge club at her home, Thursday afternoon.

Postponement of the reception to be given Friday night by the members of the N. B. B. O. club at the home of Miss Grace Moore, of West High street, has been made on account of the May Festival. It will be given a week from Friday.

Luther League of Zion Evangelical church will meet with the Misses Mohr, of South West street, Thursday evening.

Tomorrow opens the golf season for the women at the Country club in that all who desire to play all day need not go home for their lunch. Mrs. T. A. McLaughlin is this year's captain.

Peter Pan, Juliet, Quaint Margeline from Pomander Walks, Viola, Puck and Little Bunt pulling all the strings, will sit down together without any feeling of incongruity at the table spread for their enjoyment at the Lima club next Monday evening. Miss Pauline Jones and Miss Lillian Beall are in charge of the decorations and the program, which will be exceptionally clever and unique. Music will be furnished through-

The Gentle Art of Nagging

How It Adds to the Discord of Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HAVE you ever lain awake in the middle of the night and listened to a dog howling hideously, with wailing reiteration of two long-drawn notes? Have you ever sought the quiet of your own apartment only to have your rest or attempt at concentration broken up by the incessant thud of one and the same tune on a neighbor's piano? Either experience probably drove you almost crazy.

And yet you, whoever you are, are capable of whining out the same old tune over and over again in the process of begging for something you want or protesting against something you don't want! The nagger is as pleasant to listen to as the whining of an E string when an amateur practices on the violin.

The other day I was riding down in a car and my next door neighbor was a girl who wanted a new suit which her mother didn't seem to think she could afford. The girl was whining out her complaints against people who were stingy, and

by MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Doctor and the Misses Try to Dispel Olive's Fears.

IT WAS nearly ten o'clock at night when the Elisons tapped on the door and walked into the Mortons' living room.

"Any news?" chorused Nell and Dick, coming forward to greet their friends. Olive sank into a chair and the others drew closely around her. Nell noticed the great black circles under Olive's eyes and thought compassionately: "This awful suspense will kill her." The doctor began to speak, and she turned her eyes to him.

"I was just called up on the phone by a man who had read about the disappearance of our baby. He said he picked up a woman on the road to Burling on Monday about three o'clock. She was carrying a heavy child and seemed very tired. The description of the woman tallies in every way with that given by the farmer."

"But the Burling road is a mile west of the road we were on this afternoon, and Mr. Farrer said the woman he gave a ride to went east," interrupted Dick.

"I know," responded the doctor, "but I still think it was the same woman. She gave no account of herself and what same reason could a woman have for starting aloft with a heavy baby to a town fifteen miles away? That fact alone would lead me to suspect that all was not as it should be, and that was what made the man call me up. People's don't do those things."

"And about her being on a different road going in a different direction?"

"That only confirms my suspicion that we are on the right trail. She doubled back on her track after the farmer was out of sight and in some way got over to the Burling road."

out the evening by the Misses Josephine Sherwood, Helen Hunter and Dorothy Hunter.

Miss Mildred Jones will entertain the Sunshine society at her home this evening. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. I. L. Morris, of South Broadway, was hostess yesterday of the Kinetix Circle. Club members answered roll call with current events and guests at the meeting were Mrs. Henry Hawisher, Mrs. George W. Tucker, and Mrs. Welsh. Mrs. Tucker assisted the hostess in serving delicious refreshments. In two weeks the club will be entertained by Mrs. H. C. Potter.

At the final meeting of the Avanta club 12 members enjoyed the afternoon in sewing, with Mrs. C. C. Williams. Spring flowers were used as decorations. Mrs. J. D. Jones was the only guest at the meeting. A two-course lunch concluded the meeting.

Loyal workers of South Side Church of Christ will hold a birthday social at the home of their teacher, Mrs. P. A. Sauter, 331 W. Kibby, tomorrow evening.

Class No. 16 of the First Lutheran Sunday school was entertained last night at their annual dinner, at the home of their teacher, Mrs. W. C. Spayde. Following the dinner a business and social hour was enjoyed.

Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Lutheran church will meet this evening with Mrs. H. J. King of 321 1/2 South Pine street. Memorial offering will be taken. Husbands of the members are invited to attend this meeting.

AMERICAN BANKERS MEET.

BRIAR CLIFF MANOR, N. Y., May 10.—The executive council of the American Bankers' association in a three days' session here is considering the question whether to recommend to the association that

"Such tactics show a well worked out plan," remarked Nell musingly. "Of course I shall go over that road as soon as it is light, and do what I did today, question every person I meet and make a house to house canvass in Burling to find out whether she is there or not," resumed the doctor.

"Oh, did the man take her to Burling?" exclaimed Dick.

"Yes, he set her down at the first house. She said that was where she wanted to go," answered the doctor. A sob from Olive caused all eyes to turn in her direction. Nell leaned over and put her arm around her friend.

"This is no time to despair, when you have a fresh trail to follow," she whispered encouragingly.

"Oh," moaned Olive, "don't you see we are helpless? That woman will not be in Burling. She was put down on the edge of the town and never went near it. She turned off on some road and beat back on her tracks. I tell you such insane cunning is too much for us." The voice trailed off into silence and only the deep sobbing filled the room.

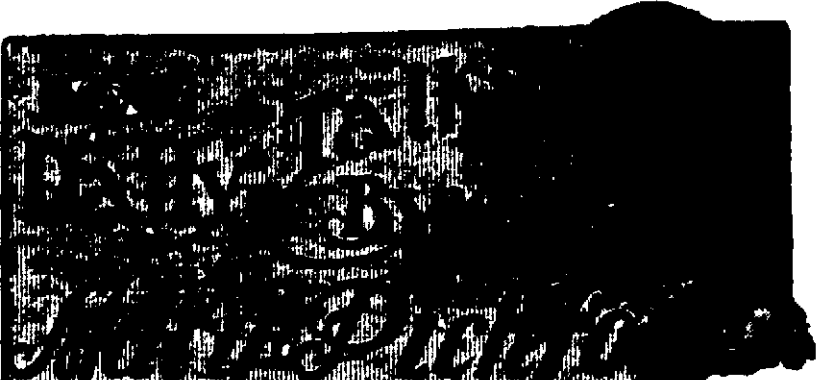

"We can follow every road around there; can question everybody. Don't you see, dear, she would have to seek shelter for the night, and somebody must give it to her. We are bound to come upon her trail, and I predict that by tomorrow night we will have our baby safe and sound in her little crib." The doctor's tone was confident. He felt he must say something to keep up the flagging courage of his wife. "Come on home now, dear; we must get some sleep and be ready to start as soon as people are up, and farmers get up early."

"Where will you go first?" queried Dick.

"To the Burling road opposite Judean's Corners. I mean to see if any one along there saw her before the auto picked her up," replied the doctor.

"Of course you will let us know as soon as you get back what you have learned," said Nell as she kissed Olive good-night.

IF YOU HAD only asked me a few days ago, "Now, who ran away with your goat?" I would have driven me to despair, because some one did actually elope not only with the mascot of the company, but with one of our prized actors, as well. I am not talking about my "goat of slang," but Mr. Billy Whiskers, who was actually starring with me in our last picture, "Hulda From Holland," and this is how it all came about:

Billy Whiskers was never particularly popular with us because he not only had the goatliest kind of a disposition, but a very bad habit of butting in—surreptitiously! So bad were his manners we had to warn all new-comers at the studio to keep a watchful eye upon him and avoid any conflict not agreeable to all parties concerned.

The only ones in the company he seemed to respect were the kiddies, and he even tolerated their pulling his whiskers or riding around on his back. This, of course, endeared him to the children, and a studio pet was made of this "devil on four feet," as our old Irish comedian called him. A few days ago we had to take him to Bridgehampton, Long Island, where we went for locations which would photograph like old Holland, and there, out in the country, he gamboled over the green, after he had successfully chewed the rope which tied him, and "Cherchez la goat" became the company's watchword.

One afternoon, the director called us to duty, and there followed a universal powwow.

"In this scene the goat has got to die," began the director, but he got no further.

"Die?" we all echoed.

"Yes, die—it's written in the story and I don't see any way to get out of it," he apologized, looking from the script of Mr. Whiskers.

"It will be a pretty tough proposition killing Billy Whiskers," the leading man remarked. "I guess death is the only thing that will ever get that fellow's goat. I know—"

And then the director had to explain that by shooting the goat he meant it only in the technical sense used by moving-picture people to ex-less quick photography. Whether she believed him or not we never knew until late that evening, when some one discovered the goat had been stolen.

The following morning a search warrant was sent out, and the whole company took to the hills and dales, calling in vain for Mr. Whiskers. But, safely locked in some one's woodshed, let us hope Mr. Whiskers found peace and content at least, as we were forced to come back to the studio minus the most eloquent of our actors.

Answers to Correspondents

H. J.—I do not know whether "Carmen" will appear at your local theatre or not, but you could write to either of the companies which produced it and they will probably let you know.

Herbert G.—I do not think Kemp-ton Greene was ever with the Vita-graph company, but, at any rate, he is at present with the Lubin company, Philadelphia.

Thana F.—I cannot recommend to you any specific dramatic school or school of photoplay acting. Your elocution teacher, however, should be a very good judge, so why not follow her advice, especially as you say she has taken such great pains with you?

G. K. P.—I would be only too glad to comply with your request, but I have no time in which to read scenarios or plays. Send them to the scenario departments of the photoplay companies and I assure you they will receive careful attention.

School Girl—No, I do not advise you to leave school and try to act in the movies. If you do become an actress, you will find an education invaluable.

Jane F.—I cannot give you the recommendation you ask for, but write to the actress you mention and ask for an interview. I cannot promise you she will grant it, but state all the facts to her fully, as in your letter to me.

CLOSING CONCERTS FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Music of Highest Class on Program Tomorrow and Friday.

The concluding concerts of the series introduced for the purpose of raising funds for playground equipment will be heard at Memorial hall on tomorrow and Friday nights. On Thursday night the High school mixed chorus, the High School Glee club and the High school orchestra, assisted by Miss Blanche Finicle, soprano, R. B. Mikesell, tenor, and Fred M. Calvert, baritone, will render a cantata, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," by Anderson.

On Friday night the Community chorus of 120 voices, assisted by Mrs. Anna Roberts Davies of Gomer, soprano; Marion Green of Chicago, basso; and Arthur Platz, also of Chicago, tenor, will be heard in Haydn's masterpiece, "The Creation," one of the favorite oratorios of all time. The accompaniments will be furnished by the Lima Symphony orchestra of forty pieces. Miss Edna Peat will be at the piano.

The Community chorus includes the forces of the old Choral society, united with those which have come since that organization was disbanded several years ago. The sections are said to have a perfect blend and balance. The chorus has been in rehearsal for several months. Supervising its progress have been Mark Evans, as director; Prof. J. E. Collins, superintendent of schools, and Richard A. Shappell. It is expected that the success which has met the efforts of this committee will be the all-sufficient cause for the continuance of the organization for the production of annual festivals.

The soloists are of the best the country affords, and are artists of reputation. Both Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Green have frequently been heard here, and Mr. Platz is reputed to be a tenor of first rank. Success has greeted his every appearance. Lima people, anxious to further the cause for which the oratorio is being produced, are warm in their support of the project, and will greet the event with a capacity house.

WOMEN MACCABEES GO TO WAPAKONETA FOR DISTRICT RALLY

State Chief Mrs. Heppert and Mrs. Sullivan, Are Honor Guests.

Twenty-Seven Reviews to Participate in Business and Social Features.

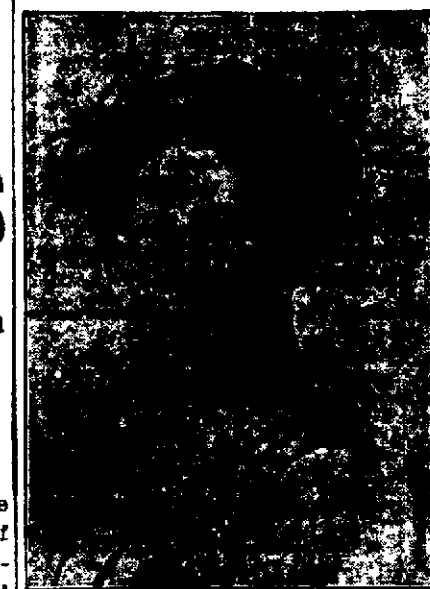

The fifteenth district rally of the Women's Benefit association of the Maccabees, will be held in Wapakoneta Thursday. Between three and four hundred women are expected to attend. Lima will be largely represented at the gathering, and Allen reviews sending delegates.

Business sessions will be held at afternoon and evening at Odd Fellows' hall. Mrs. D. A. Siferd, Jr., is commander of the entertaining hive at Wapakoneta.

A reception will be held in the evening, when Mrs. Nellie C. V. Heppert, of Akron, great commander of Ohio, Mrs. Nettie Sullivan of Lima, district deputy and visiting past commanders will be honored. While it was fully expected Miss Bina West, supreme commander, would come from Port Huron, Mich., for the meeting, the latest word from her conveys the information that she will not be able to attend.

Twenty-seven reviews will be represented at the rally. Dinner will be extended to the visitors in the basement of the Methodist church at 5 o'clock in the evening. During the afternoon degree work will be exemplified, by various reviews in attendance.

Miss Bina M. West, supreme commander, organized the society on October 1, 1892, without a dollar or a member. She has signed in benefits since then thirteen millions of dollars and a big reserve fund is on hand.

Ohio Maccabees are very happy over the recent endowment of state hospital services at Cleveland, Toledo, and Columbus, for the care of needy sick in the state. This enables every review to extend the fraternity of the association in a fraternal way to those who are not able to provide expert medical attention for themselves. This provision was made at the supreme review held in New York City in 1915, and since then over 600 patients have been cared for by the association throughout its jurisdiction.

Ohio had the honor of winning the 1915 class pennant for the largest net benefit gain, and its members are very anxious to capture it again. To date, the Woman's Benefit association of the Maccabees has paid out in death and disability benefits in Ohio $1,579,176.29, and the protection in force amounts to $14,794,280.65. There are 28,161 members in the state, and their fine work along fraternal and educational lines has been highly commended.

Whiskey amounting to 161,250 proof gallons, valued at $396,807, was involved at the American consulate at Edinburgh, Scotland, for the United States during 1915, compared with 199,890 gallons, valued at $438,367, for 1914.

PRESIDENT WILSON REDUCING WAR RISKS

Rules Enforced Limit Passports to Persons Compelled to go Abroad.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing are determined that the mere pleasure or curiosity seeker shall not run risks that might involve the United States in the European war. Just the other day the president issued an executive order to further safeguard the issuance of passports, allowing Americans to travel abroad. This requires that the certificate of the clerk of the state court as to the identity of an applicant for a passport will not be accepted if a federal court is within easy access.

Before the war, Americans desiring to go to Europe just naturally went, that's all. Except to Russia, Turkey and the Balkan states, formal credentials from the United States government were unnecessary. Now you may not sail to any destination unless you have Uncle Sam's express permission. You must state the full details of your business, the why and the wherefore of the journey, and, if then it is decided that your business is real business, you are equipped with a most elaborate set of papers. To obtain these you must upon oath declare your American citizenship and prove your right to the claim by witnesses. If you are American born, a reputable citizen known in your community must depose that it is a fact of his personal knowledge that you were born in the United States of American parents. If you are a naturalized citizen, you must present your naturalization papers.

In giving your reason for going abroad you must submit documentary proof of its truth. If you go as a representative of a business house, you must have letters from your employers corroborating your statements.

When the passport is finally issued your full description is entered thereon in minute detail; height, weight, general proportions; the color of your hair and of your eyes, the style of your mustache and so on. The passport is about as large as an ordinary sheet of foolscap. In the upper left hand corner there must be a clear photograph of your front face—one containing a very good likeness; and upon the photograph must be stamped the seal of the court or the agent of the department of state to whom you applied for the passport. No chances whatever are taken on the proposition that the photograph of someone other than the rightful possessor may be placed upon the passport.

Thus it is assured that if Americans lose their lives upon a passenger ship sunk illegally by one of the belligerent powers it will be under conditions in which the travel was enforced by business necessity. The president will uphold the right of Americans to attend to their imperative business when so doing requires them to travel on the high seas but this does not extend to rich people who want to go about Europe merely for amusement.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedy."—Mrs. MAYME ASHACH, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCASLAND, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. OSGOOD, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Cleveland Defeated By Errors

BOSTON, May 10.—Tris Speaker was given a warm welcome by his old friends here yesterday, but the Red Sox administered a 5 to 1 defeat to Cleveland. The Shriners presented Speaker with a fez and a jeweled badge. The Boston club's gift was a massive silver loving cup. Speaker earned Cleveland's only run on his terrific drive to the flagpole for three bases and a single by Roth. Leonard pitched good ball for Boston, allowing but three hits. Coveleskie passed Carrigan twice and each time he scored a run. Errors by Cleveland's infielders coupled with hits accounted for Boston's other runs. Score: Cleveland AB. R. H. P. O. A. E. ## DePalma Wants to Compete

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.—Ralph DePalma, winner of the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway last year, has wired the speedway officials for permission to enter his Mercedes car. Ralph says he has sold this made-in-Germany race car to Frank P. Book, a young Detroit millionaire, who has had some racing experience and wants to drive at Indianapolis in the sixth annual international speed battle. Book will drive a Cadillac in the Chicago amateur race and DePalma says: "I can recommend him as a capable driver." Right away speculation is rampant. DePalma did not get his entry in before the opportunity closed at midnight May 1. There were various rumors why not. Now with the sale of the car, some who believe Ralph can not resist the lure of the race, are wondering if Ralph does not expect to let Book start and then Ralph be the relief driver.

General Manager Myers of the speedway says in order to let the Mercedes enter as a post entry, consent in writing must be first obtained from all the other entries. Myers is mailing letters to all these drivers, but it may be several days before he gets the replies. In the meantime many of the speed fans are hoping that Ralph's car, if not Ralph as a relief driver, will be among the already notable list of starters.

Rigid physical tests must be passed by all entrants, for "safety first" will be a practice as well as a slogan at Indianapolis this year. Following are but samples of a whole volume of rules that are necessary to regulate such an enormous undertaking as this race: Each car must show 80 miles an hour in an official speed trial of one lap of the track to be eligible. Speed trials will be held on May 26 and 27. Cars shall start in the order of the time they make in the official speed trials; the fastest car starting in first position, next to the pole. The racing numbers will be assigned in the same manner, the fastest car receiving No. 1. In event of rain, the race will be postponed until Wednesday, May 31st, or some subsequent date. Any driver, who in the opinion of the officials or speedway management, does not show sufficient skill and judgment in the handling of his car to make him a safe factor in competition, shall be barred from the track. Any driver, who, on the day of the races gives evidence of exhaustion or other physical incapacity, making him a potential danger to others on the course, may be barred from further competition. The status of his eyesight, heart action, blood pressure and general condition must have

Words of Praise For Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. John Miller, Roanoke, Ind. "It cured me of a severe cold on the lungs and an aggravating cough. I have recommended this remedy to a great many people who have used it and have nothing but words of praise for it. Obtainable everywhere."

Cincy Is Defeated By Cubs

CHICAGO, Ill., May 10.—Frad Williams' triple broke up yesterday's game with Cincinnati, and gave Chicago an 8 to 5 victory. After two men were out in the eighth, Prendergast started the winning rally with a single, Schulte and Flack followed with safe hits, filling the bases, Williams followed with his timely hit, which gave the locals the game.

Zimmerman scored Williams with a single, then stole second and third and clinched the game by scoring on Clarke's wild throw to third.

The game was a batting bee, each club hitting frequently, the visitors overcoming Chicago's early lead and forcing Seaton and Pierce to retire. Prendergast checked the scoring of Cincinnati. Mitchell lasted but one inning for Cincinnati and Schneider had little difficulty until the eighth, when, after 2 men had been retired, the locals filled the bases. He gave way to Schultz and Williams was the first man to face him. Score: Cincinnati AB. R. H. P. O. A. E. ### INSTINCT OF BLACKBIRDS.

While residing in the country some years ago and walking out one evening, I found a nest of young blackbirds. The young birds were almost fledged. Taking them home with me, I put them in a cage and the next morning hung them out under a tree, and in about an hour I saw the old birds at the cage evidently delighted to find their young. The old birds came regularly every two hours and fed them with worms and grubs. This continued for two days, the old birds trying all in their power to get the young ones out. On the third day I noticed the old birds bring a berry, which they gave the young ones, two of which died that evening and the rest the next day. The old birds then left off coming. The berries on examination proved to be the seeds of the Atropa belladonna or deadly nightshade. This convinced me of what I had heard about these birds destroying their young if allowed to feed them in imprisonment. I told that other birds have the instinct. —Liverpool Post.

WOODEN SHOES ARE NOW IN USE BY GERMAN CHILDREN

School Authorities Encourage Return of Old Time Custom.

Shortage of Leather is the Cause Given For Present Policy.

BERLIN, May 10.—After more than a century and a half of relative unpopularity and disuse, except among the peasantry, wooden shoes are becoming the vogue with school children once more, and their use is being actively and practically encouraged by school authorities.

The reason, of course, is the scarcity and unprecedented expense of leather shoes which gradually have caused people to forget the old-time dislike of and stigma attaching to wooden shoes. Hundreds of school children in the past few weeks have taken, either to leather shoes with wooden soles, or to the old all-wooden "pantins."

The first move in favor of a resumption of wooden shoes was taken by the school authorities in notifying teachers that they should countenance the use of such things in spite of all the noise made when the children clattered about the bare floors in them.

Then the authorities of the suburb of Lichterfelde went a step farther and offered a premium of one mark to all children being in part or entirely supported who would wear wooden shoes with wooden soles for a period of four weeks. Those authorities who have charge of supporting the families of soldiers spent a considerable sum of money in the purchase of several hundred pairs of shoes, which were offered to the public at prices ranging from a little over a dollar to a dollar and a half a pair.

At first only the boys took to the new shoes, but gradually the girls too have adopted them, and hundreds of children of both sexes wear them to school daily and save their expensive leather shoes for Sunday and special occasions. Gradually they are winning a vogue in other parts of Berlin, and, of course, are widely worn in the country districts. The history of the "pantins" or wooden slipper, generally without heels of any sort, goes back for centuries. Along in the early years of the eighteenth century an edict was issued in Prussia against their use, and not only were persons who disobeyed punished, but communities which permitted their use were fined heavily. For a long time, however, they continued to be so popular that the edict had to be renewed more than once.

People really stopped wearing them only when they became a sort of badge of poverty, and their use has never entirely disappeared in country districts where they are far better protection than leather against mud and wet, and where their durability naturally commends itself to the peasants.

Paper shortage, like the leather shortage, is also having its effects in the Prussian schools in the decree by the minister of education that from now on slates shall to the fullest possible extent replace the old-time paper booklets in which the children have been accustomed to do their lessons.

In issuing his decree, Minister von Trott zu Solz called the attention of teachers to the fact that because of this shortage of paper children who still have to use the bound books must be made to use up every available space, and that the books no longer need to be enclosed in a heavy paper cover, all of which goes to waste.

Why Water Gurgles From a Bottle. Water or any other liquid cannot flow from a bottle if it's steady stream because until the bottle is empty there is a continuous struggle between the tendency of the liquid to fall from the bottle and the rushing of the air to get in. When a full bottle without a cork is turned upside down there will be an alternate realization of two operations—the liquid to follow the attraction of gravitation and the air to obey its natural impulse to fill a void.

PROVISION DEALERS EXCURSION JULY 19

Two Trains Leave on L. E. & W. For Cedar Point That Day.

The date of the annual excursion of the Grocers' Meat Dealers' Association has been set for Thursday, July 19. It had previously been scheduled for a week later, but because of the presence in Lima of the big 101 ranch show, the grocery men gave the day over to the circus. Besides, they were all boys themselves once. Cedar Point, on Lake Erie, will be visited.

Two special trains will carry the party, to leave over the Lake Erie railroad about 15 minutes apart in the early morning of that day. Men who are interested in the same business in towns adjacent to Lima, will be invited to join the Lima delegation.

The entertainment committee consists of Ed. Beneth, W. L. McClain, Harvey D. Allen and A. T. Brentlinger and they promise the picnic features of past years will be fully maintained.

The executive committee, at the meeting last night, accepted the arrangements of the entertainment committee. Officers of the association are: S. E. McClure, president; W. L. Koch, vice president; Harvey D. Allen, corresponding secretary; William Martin, treasurer; George Bowerland, J. C. Kelly, W. L.

McClain and C. E. Kindall, members.

Every effort should be made to prevent the attack by giving the child a light supper and plenty of fresh air at all times. The child should be warmly clad when out of doors. Especially the feet should be well protected and under no circumstances should the child be allowed to remain with wet or cold feet. Then watch for the first symptoms, hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once and the attack may be warded off. This remedy is a favorite with the mothers of croupy children and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere. Find it in Times want column.
